New Relic: what the new Chief Customer Officer inherits

Prepared for the Chief Customer Officer, New Relic · Prepared by Aziz Camara · public information only

A sponsor-owned observability company that says it reached $1 billion in revenue, carries $2.4 billion of floating-rate debt, appointed a new CEO on 1 October 2026, and has an agentic AI roadmap that is mostly still in preview. Eight research agents and one fact-checker built this from public sources. Every number carries its source and a confidence label.

ESTIMATE [31,77,78,+31]

Ten things to know before the first meeting

1. A new CEO, days into the job. Nandini Ramani, who led an observability, search and compliance portfolio at AWS, became CEO on 1 October 2026; Ashan Willy, CEO since December 2023, became an advisor to the board. No reason was given publicly. Most of the team is new since 2024, and there have been 4 Chief Revenue Officers in four years. [6,7,8,+3]

2. The CCO seat has no public announcement. No 2025 or 2026 release names a Chief Customer Officer, and the leadership page lists none. The 2026 CRO announcement covers sales, segments and channel but not renewals or customer success, so who owns them is not public. [8,10,11,12]

3. Growth had stalled before the sale. Revenue held near $242M for three quarters, growth fell to 7%, and net revenue retention slid from 120% to 114%. The buyers' price fell from $96.05 to $87 after growth guidance was cut to 10-11%. [6,54,55,+10]

4. The buyout left real debt, and lenders have grown a little cautious. A $2.4B first-lien term loan at SOFR + 6.75%, due November 2030, held by 28 lending funds: roughly $250M a year of interest (derived). Lenders marked it at 95 to 98% of par in June 2026, down from about par six months earlier. Caution, not distress; retention is now a credit metric. [64,66,68,+6]

5. About 1,255 customers are most of the business. Accounts over $100K produced about 84% of revenue at the last report, and 92% of revenue is consumption. Usage health in that cohort is, in effect, the P&L. [61,62]

6. Pricing is the most common complaint. There are now three meters: data ingested, user seats, and compute units for AI features. Pricing and licensing is the top complaint in a sample of 31 PeerSpot reviews (9 mentions). [20,21,23,+5]

7. Agentic AI: one product now GA, most still in preview. Autopilot became generally available on 6 October 2026, but it recommends rather than acts and needs Pro or Enterprise plus the Advanced Compute add-on. The agent builder, root-cause analysis and MCP server are still in preview. Scorecard: New Relic 13, Datadog 17 of 21. [31,77,79,+4]

8. The 2026 Gartner placement is unannounced. New Relic was a Gartner Leader for the 13th straight year in 2025. For the July 2026 report it has said nothing, while Datadog, Dynatrace, Grafana, Coralogix and Chronosphere announced Leader. Confirm internally before customers ask. [90,95,99,+9]

9. The market grows; peers grow faster. Datadog grew 36% in Q2 2026, Dynatrace ARR 17%, Elastic 15%. Palo Alto bought Chronosphere ($2.95B consideration) and Snowflake bought Observe ($596M) in early 2026. OpenTelemetry lowers switching costs. [120,121,122,+4]

10. A sponsor exit is the long horizon. Typical private-equity holds point to roughly 2027 to 2030 (an industry norm, not a reported plan). No sale, IPO or link between the CEO change and an exit was found. Any buyer will study retention by cohort, which is CCO territory. [6,146,148]

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR A CHIEF CUSTOMER OFFICER (ANALYSIS)

Retention is now three things at once: the growth story, the cash that services $2.4B of debt, and the evidence any future buyer will study. The fastest levers in reach are the bill (forecasting, usage alerts, cost reviews for the largest accounts), a plain statement of which AI features are generally available and priced, and one agreed owner for renewals and consumption. This is the research team's reading of the evidence, not a sourced fact.

HISTORY, LEADERSHIP, OWNERSHIP

From Lew Cirne's startup to a sponsor-owned company

Founded in 2008 by Lew Cirne, public from December 2014, taken private in November 2023. The leadership has turned over almost completely since the buyout, which matters for who a new CCO will be working with.

THE CHIEF CUSTOMER OFFICER SEAT

No 2025 or 2026 release announces a Chief Customer Officer, and the current leadership page lists none. A New Relic author page still shows Arnie Lopez as SVP and Chief Customer Officer; the latest dated evidence is from early 2025 and the name is not on the leadership page. Earlier holders: Roger Scott (2018, reporting to the CRO) and Jay Snyder (2020, whose remit spanned success, services, support, education, renewals and alliances; Snyder left in about 2021). The CRO remit has moved too: customer success sat under the CRO in 2022, renewals in 2024, and the 2026 announcement names neither. Settling who owns renewals, expansion and consumption is the first job.[8,10,11,+7]

Owners and board: Francisco Partners and TPG, with Accel and CapitalG as co-investors. At the close all ten public-company directors left and four were appointed (including the then CFO and Chief Legal Officer). The current board, beyond the new CEO, is not public.[7,207]

Four CROs in four years: Mark Dodds (Oct 2022) · Christopher Jones (Apr 2024) · Lauren Nemeth (Jul 2025) · Hein Hellemons (Jul 2026).[8,17,209,210] Customer success sat under the CRO in 2022, renewals in 2024; the 2026 announcement lists neither.

PRODUCTS AND PRICING

What New Relic sells, and how it charges

A broad observability platform (more than 50 capabilities, 780+ integrations) sold on a usage model: data ingested plus user seats, and now compute units for the newer AI features.

The platform, by area

AREA	CAPABILITIES
APM	APM (APM 360), Serverless monitoring	[22]
Infrastructure	Infrastructure monitoring, Kubernetes monitoring (incl. Pixie), Network monitoring, Database monitoring, Prometheus monitoring	[22,34,36]
Logs	Log management, Federated Logs	[21,22,30]
Digital experience	Browser monitoring / RUM, Mobile monitoring, Synthetic monitoring, Session Replay, Errors Inbox (Risks and Errors Inbox)	[22]
Platform and data	OpenTelemetry support, Dashboards and NRQL, Change Tracking, Service levels / Service Architecture Intelligence, Cloud Cost Intelligence, Pipeline Control and Fleet Control, Data Plus, Live Archives, extended retention	[20,21,22,30]
AI	Alerts and AIOps (Applied Intelligence), New Relic AI, Autopilot, SRE Agent, Ground Truth, AI Observability / Agentic AI Monitoring	[22,28,30,31]
Security	Vulnerability Management and Security RX, IAST	[22,32,33]
Developer tools	CodeStream	[21,35]
Business observability	Pathpoint / Pathpoint Plus, Business Observability and Intelligent Workloads, New Relic for SAP / Retail Solution	[22,27,30]

Pricing, era by era

PERIOD	MODEL	KEY PRICES	SOURCE
2008-2020	Host-based (per host/tool, many cost vectors: compute units, page views, events, retention, spans, invocations, logs)	price list by host	CONFIRMED [24]
2020-2024	Users plus data ingest, launched Jul 2020	Data ingest at launch: $0.25; Data ingest later (post-increase): $0.30; Data ingest per 2022 blog: $0.35; Full platform user at launch: $99	REPORTED [24,25,39]
2023-2026	Editions (Free, Standard, Pro, Enterprise), user types (Basic, Core, Full), Original vs Data Plus	Original ingest: $0.40; Data Plus ingest: $0.60; Core user: $49; Full user Standard (additional): $99; Full user Pro annual: $349	CONFIRMED [20,21]
2024-2026	Compute-based (CCU) option: data ingest plus compute capacity units, unlimited users; Core CCU and Advanced CCU (aCCU) for AI and intelligent features	Per-CCU rate	CONFIRMED [21,23,26]

THREE METERS ON ONE BILL

Customers pay for data ingested ($0.40 per GB, or $0.60 on Data Plus), for user seats ($49 Core, $99 to $418.80 Full platform), and, for the newer AI and compute-based features, for compute capacity units with no public per-unit price. Each meter is reasonable alone; together they make a bill hard to forecast, which is the most common complaint in reviews. [20,21,23,+5]

Editions

EDITION	WHAT IT INCLUDES
Free	$0, 100 GB, 1 full platform user
Standard	Up to 5 full users ($10 first, $99 each more), core users $49, 2-business-day ticket SLA, SAML SSO
Pro	Unlimited full users $349 annual / $418.80 monthly, Data Plus eligible, 2h critical SLA, optional consumption pricing
Enterprise	Contact sales, FedRAMP Moderate and HIPAA with Data Plus, 1h critical SLA, optional consumption pricing

Nine years of audited numbers, and a slowdown at the end

New Relic filed audited numbers until the quarter ended 30 September 2023. The arc is fast growth, a painful pricing transition in FY2021, a recovery, and then a stall in the final three quarters.

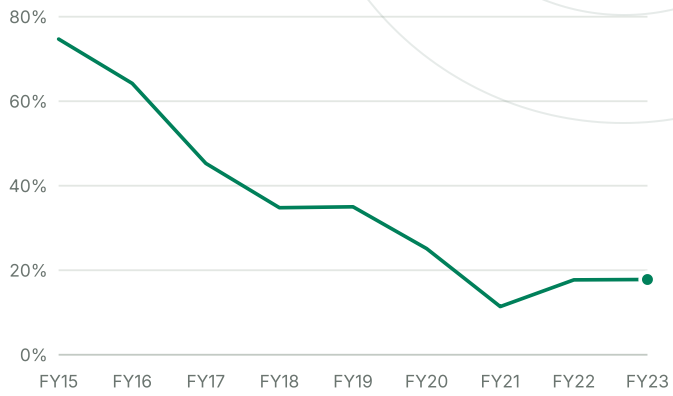

Revenue, FY2015 to FY2023[40,41,42,+14]

Fiscal years end 31 March. Last full public year: FY2023, $925.6M.

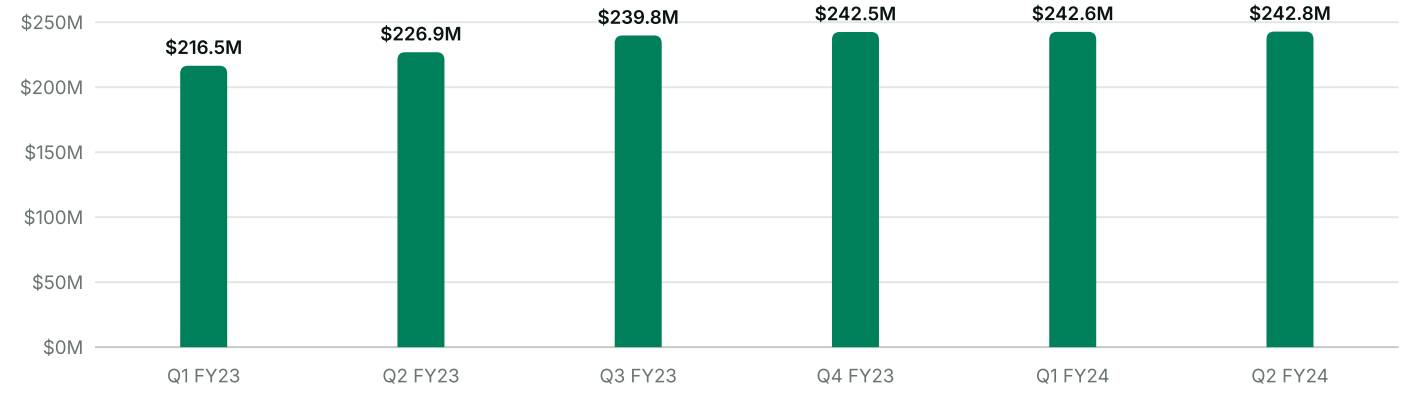

Revenue growth, year over year[40,41,42,+14]

From 75% in FY2015 to an 11% trough in FY2021, the year of the move to consumption pricing.

The last six public quarters[54,55,56,+6]

Revenue sat at about $242M for three straight quarters before the buyout closed.

WHY THE FLAT QUARTERS MATTER

The last three public quarters printed $242.5M, $242.6M and $242.8M. With 92% of revenue tied to consumption, flat revenue means customers were optimising usage as fast as new usage arrived. That is the pattern the sponsors bought into, and the one a customer team is best placed to change.[54,55,56,+6]

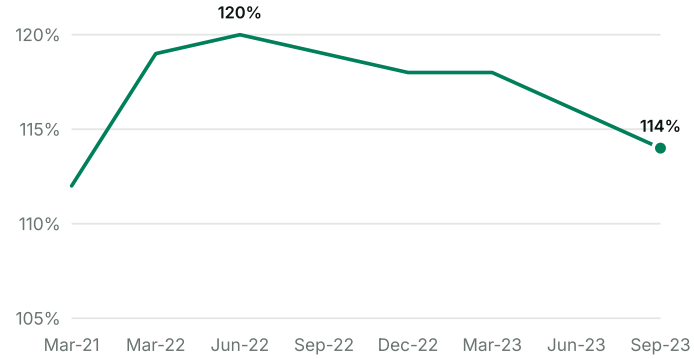

Customers spending over $100K a year[40,41,42,+21]

About 1,255 accounts produced about 84% of revenue at the last report. The definition changed at FY2022.

Net revenue retention, new basis (Mar-21 to Sep-23)[40,41,42,+21]

Revenue-based. Drifted from 120% to 114% in the last five public quarters.

OWNERSHIP, DEBT AND SCALE TODAY

Private since November 2023, and quiet about its numbers

Since the buyout, New Relic publishes almost nothing about its finances. What is visible: the deal terms, the debt (through the lenders' own filings), and one company line about $1 billion in revenue.

How the buyout price moved, $ per share[6,146,149,156]

From the merger proxy (DEFM14A). Francisco Partners first approached in June 2022.

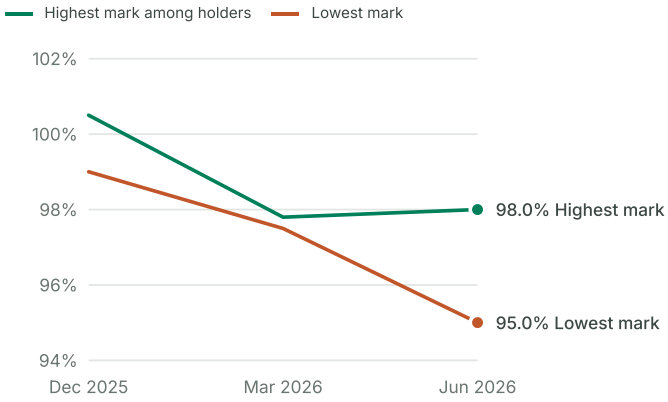

THE DEAL[63,64,65,66]

Signed and closed	Agreement 30 Jul 2023 (announced 31 Jul); closed 8 Nov 2023
Price	$87.00 a share in cash, about $6.5B equity value
Premium	17.5% over the last close ($74.05); the company cited 26% over the 30-day average
Owners	Francisco Partners and TPG, with Accel and CapitalG; Lew Cirne rolled about $250M of shares

What lenders think: marks on the $2.4B term loan[214,215,216]

Fair-value marks set by each lending fund (not traded prices), from their quarterly filings. Seven holders checked.

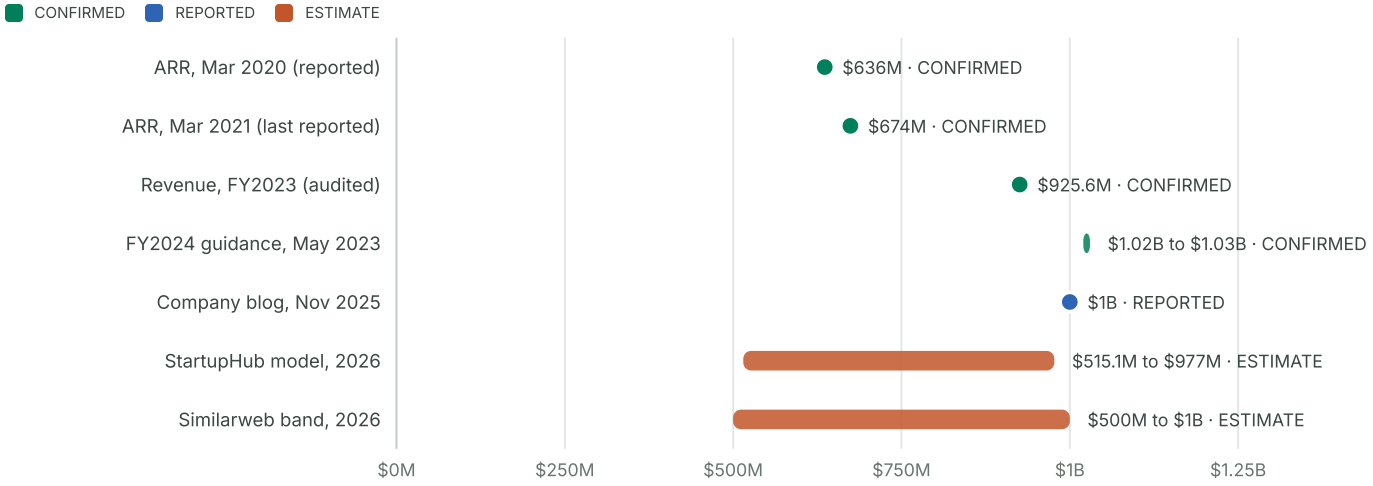

WHAT THE DEBT MEANS FOR CUSTOMER WORK

At SOFR + 6.75% the term loan cost 10.59% all-in at the end of 2025 and 10.41% in June 2026, about $250M a year on $2.4B (derived; principal may have amortised). Against roughly $1 billion of revenue, that makes cash generation, and therefore gross retention, expansion and cost-to-serve, a priority for owners and lenders. Terms are unchanged and the revolver looks undrawn, but the 28 funds that hold the loan marked it down from about par to 95 to 98% of par in the first half of 2026. That is caution, not distress, and a fund's mark is not a traded price.[64,66,68,+6]

How big is New Relic now?[1,49,51,+6]

No ARR has been published since March 2021. The best current marker is a company blog line about $1 billion in revenue, period unstated.

AGENTIC AI

Loud on announcements, light on general availability

Agentic AI is the centre of New Relic's 2025 and 2026 messaging. The question for customer conversations is what is generally available, supported and priced today.

WHERE NEW RELIC STANDS

New Relic has the broadest list of AI announcements among its peers and, until October 2026, the thinnest generally available evidence. Autopilot is now generally available, but it recommends actions rather than taking them, needs Pro or Enterprise plus the Advanced Compute add-on, is capped at 100 requests an hour, and has no published price. The agent builder, root-cause analysis, Smart Alerts and the MCP server remain in preview. Competitors sell generally available investigation agents with named customers. For customer conversations the gap is commercial clarity: what is GA, what it costs, who is eligible.[87,88,89,+4]

Exit paths, rated by evidence (no probabilities invented)

SCENARIO	EVIDENCE	WHY
Sale to a strategic	WEAK	Only one strategic stayed engaged in 2023 and dropped out before diligence; no 2024-2026 reports. Size (about $6.5B plus leverage) limits buyers.	[146]
Sale to another sponsor	MODERATE	PE Firms A, B, C bid in 2023 at $90-100 indications before falling below $90; sponsors were the main buyer class. No 2024-2026 report.	[146]
Merger with sister portfolio company (Sumo Logic)	WEAK	Analyst speculation in 2023 only; separate FP and TPG funds with independent outcomes per CEO comment; no reporting since.	[6,148]
IPO re-listing	NONE	No reports found; purely logical exit route after 4-7 year hold.
Continued hold or continuation vehicle	NONE	No reports found; logical if growth recovery or market conditions delay exit.

HOW THE 2023 SALE WENT

FP made an unsolicited approach 2022-06-03; board rejected $70-75 (Jul 2022) and $75-80 (Nov 2022); $95 in Feb 2023 led the board to run a process. Qatalyst contacted 16 parties (12 PE, 4 strategic) on 2023-03-16; 9 PE and 1 strategic signed NDAs; 10 declined 2023-04-04. FP/TPG bid $96.05 on 2023-04-20 but lacked co-investors; talks paused 2023-05-03 and resumed; FY2024 revenue growth guidance cut to 10-11% in May 2023. Merger agreement signed 2023-07-30 at $87.00 cash (about $6.5B). Go-shop to 2023-09-13 yielded no proposal. Closed 2023-11-08.[6,146,149,156]

- SVP, Sales - Americas (open, posted 2026-10-07): Reports to the new CRO; priorities are enterprise accounts over 1,000 employees, consumption growth, forecast discipline (MEDDPPIC). Seat is open after the July 2026 CRO change.[161,166]
- GTM AI Engineer (Automation & AI): Building a 'Revenue Velocity' engine with 'next-best actions' from first meeting to renewal; AI automation of GTM workflow, CS not named.[163]
- Senior Cloud Partner Sales Manager (AWS and Azure): Marketplace and private-offer co-sell using EDP/MACC commitments is a stated 'critical growth engine'; no Google Cloud.[164]

Cloud and channel: AWS Marketplace and co-sell (a five-year agreement from 2020; renewal not found), Microsoft Azure partnership and native Azure service (2022 and 2023), private offers that draw down customers' cloud commitments, plus resellers, managed service providers and technology partners. A Google Cloud Marketplace listing was not confirmed.[159,164,171,+4]

FOR THE CHIEF CUSTOMER OFFICER

What to do with all of this

Everything in this section is the research team's recommendation, built from the evidence above. It is not sourced fact and does not draw on any internal New Relic information.

The first 90 days

Days 1 to 30: listen and baseline

- Get gross and net retention by cohort, segment and region; agree one definition with Finance.
- Meet the 20 largest customers and the 20 largest at-risk renewals.
- Map who owns renewals, expansion and consumption forecasting across CS and Sales.

Days 31 to 60: fix the bill

- Make consumption forecasting and usage alerts a standard customer deliverable.
- Put a cost review into every QBR for the over-$100K cohort.
- Agree with Product a plain-language statement of what AI features are GA, eligible and priced.

Days 61 to 90: make retention visible

- Publish a monthly retention and consumption-health view the owners can read.
- Launch a save desk for displacement risks, with a value-proof pack (cost per GB, MTTR, tool consolidation).
- Set CS targets on dollar retention by cohort, not logo counts.

Questions to ask in week one

CEO

- What does the board expect from customer retention and expansion in the next four quarters?
- Where does customer success end and sales begin: who owns renewals, net revenue retention and consumption?
- Which customer commitments from the previous leadership still stand?

CFO

- What are current gross revenue retention and net revenue retention, by cohort and by segment?
- How much revenue sits in the over-$100K cohort today, and how concentrated is it?
- What do the lenders and owners watch each quarter, and which of it does the customer team move?

CRO

- Who owns renewals today? The 2026 CRO announcement does not mention them.
- Which renewals in the next two quarters are at risk, and why?
- How are Technical Success Managers measured today, and on what quota?
- What share of losses go to Datadog, Grafana or in-house builds, and on what reason?

CPO AND CTO

- What is the general-availability date and price for Autopilot and the MCP server?
- What is the plan for the reliability incidents of 2026 (synthetics, alert delays)?
- What is the 2026 Gartner placement, and how should the field talk about it?
- Which AI features are GA, priced and FedRAMP-eligible, by edition?

Metrics to ask for

METRIC TO ASK FOR	WHY IT MATTERS HERE	LAST PUBLIC VALUE
Gross revenue retention	Shows churn and downsell before expansion hides it; lenders and future buyers will ask.	not published
Net revenue retention	The metric the market used to price New Relic; it was drifting down at the last report.	114% (Sep 2023)[61,62]
Consumption vs commitment	Shows whether customers use what they bought; under-use is the leading churn signal.	not published
Revenue concentration in the over-$100K cohort	A few renewals move the P&L.	1,255 accounts, about 84% of revenue[61,62]
Paying customer count, one definition	The site says 75,000+ and a 2025 release says 85,000; the audited figure was far lower.	about 16,000 active accounts (Sep 2023) [212]
Time to first value for new Pro and Enterprise accounts	Reviews cite a learning curve and an interface that does not guide.	not published
AI feature adoption among eligible accounts	Tells whether the AI roadmap is landing where it is sold.	not published

Do not state these as fact

- That New Relic was, or was not, a Leader in the 2026 Gartner Magic Quadrant. Say it has not announced a placement.
- Any reason for the CEO change, or any link between it and a sale or exit.
- That a new CCO has been publicly announced, or that the reader succeeds any named person.
- That New Relic has $1 billion of annual revenue or ARR. The only statement is a blog line with no period or metric.
- Any revenue, growth, retention, margin, EBITDA or customer count after September 2023 as fact.
- 75,000+ or 85,000 as paying customers. The last audited figure is about 16,000 active customer accounts.
- That the loan was repriced or refinanced, that a 95 to 98% mark means distress, or that a mark is a market price.
- $3.35B as what Palo Alto paid for Chronosphere ($2.951B consideration), or about $1B for Observe ($595.8M).
- That Autopilot takes actions on its own, or that the agent builder, root-cause analysis, Smart Alerts or MCP server are GA.
- That FedRAMP High has been achieved, or any date for it.
- That the 2023 staging breach had no customer impact. The bulletin says a very small percentage of customers were affected by the search queries.
- That 2025 or 2026 layoffs happened, or that none did. Only an unconfirmed rumour exists.
- That a merger with Sumo Logic is planned. Only 2023 analyst speculation exists.

SOURCES

Sources cited in this report

188 sources, numbered as cited. The interactive version lists all 226, with the full claim ledger and fact-check: https://aacamara.github.io/cs-briefing-tokvkf/. Eight research agents covered history, products, finance, AI, market, M&A, customer success and risk, each limited to fifteen web searches and pushed toward primary sources (SEC filings, New Relic releases and docs, lenders' filings). A ninth agent re-checked the load-bearing claims against second sources. Scores and scenario ratings are judgement and are labelled ESTIMATE. The fact-check covered 71 claims: 57 verified, 10 corrected, 1 contradicted and 3 unverified, and every correction is applied in the data. Public information only; nothing internal to New Relic was used.
